

Chamber planning fall and winter activities

Elk Point Chamber of Commerce looked forward to fall and winter at their September 4 meeting, making plans for a number of upcoming activities.

First on the agenda is attendance at the FCSS Information Night, where the Chamber will give away a 1997 membership as a door prize. The public will also have a final chance to pick up 1996 tourism information at that time.

Small Business Week is at the end of October, and the Chamber agreed to once again honor a small business of the year, with Canada Post sponsoring and presenting the trophy. It's not too late to start considering which business you feel is worthy of recognition at that time.

The Chamber has also set the date for their Christmas Extravaganza. Planning for the Friday, December 5 event will be getting underway within a few weeks.

Hockey season is here again

Registration starts Wednesday

By Doug Bassett

Elk Point Minor Hockey

It's hard to believe that just last week it was 90 degrees outside, but once again hockey season is here. Over the years there have been many battles: to tier or not to tier, too many players or not enough players, who's going to coach, number of games to play, and how many tournaments to go to and where.

Although our system is not perfect, it has produced a number of quality players over the years, because of ample ice time and volunteers teaching hockey skills.

This year there is a new, tiered North East League which formed over the summer. Elk Point will be able to play at the levels where teams belong. Elk Point does not have the advantage of the bigger centres where teams are tiered at every level and have a whole team of players of equal ability. Some years there have been the right combination of players, such as the 1995 Bantam Provincial Champions, who could compete with any "AA" team, other years our teams have suffered, playing way over their heads in a league where they didn't belong.

With the new North East League, it is hoped that teams from the smaller towns will be able to compete at the level where they can keep it competitive but still fun.

With hockey registration so close to school starting, and knowing how tight budgets will be, Elk Point Minor Hockey is offering a payment plan to encourage players to register early, but pay later so that teams can be evaluated before going to the league meeting on September 18. League play starts November 1.

Once again this year, Minor Hockey is offering the Kelly Pratt skills clinic at a very reasonable price on October 19 and 20. Also brand new this year will be girls' hockey teams, if there are enough players registered.

Come down to the A. G. Ross Arena on Wednesday, September 11 from 6 to 9 p.m. or Saturday, September 14, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and sign up for some fun!

JUST HITCHED -- Wagon train sweethearts Marjorie Robinson and Roy Scott were married in a charming outdoor ceremony in their new home town of Heinsburg on Saturday, September 7. Rev. Dick Upham officiated at the service, which was held on the site of Heinsburg's original church. The groom, his sons and a grandson arrived on horseback, while the bride and her attendant arrived in a horse-drawn carriage. Following the ceremony, the two climbed aboard their pioneer-style wagon and led a parade of wagons and carriages around the community. The Scotts met on a wagon train journey in 1988, and have shared a number of wagon train journeys since then. Happy trails, Roy and Marge!

Tourist numbers down from 1995

The cool, wet summer may be responsible for a drop in registration at Elk Point's Tourist Information Centre and Fort George and Buckingham House Interpretive Centre this year, but did not deter campers from enjoying the Whitney Lakes Provincial Park.

The Tourist Information Centre's year end statistics show a substantial decrease in tourist numbers for the second consecutive year. Only 486 visitors registered at the Centre this year, down 34 % from 1995 and 57 % from 1994.

The Centre was open from June 1 to August 15 this year, as compared to a two week longer season the previous years, but still show a 31% decline from that 10-week period last year. It is interesting to note that 111 visitors came to the Centre during the 15 days the booth was open in August this year, as compared to 203 for the entire month of August 1995. June's figures were down 91 visitors from last year, while 64 less visitors registered in July.

TIC operator Sherry Pelech also noted a trend toward higher percentages of local people from Elk Point and surrounding areas coming to the Centre. In 1994, 20% of the registrants were local. In 1995 that figure was raised to 26.5%, and this year has increased again to 29%.

Reports from Fort George and Buckingham House Interpretive Centre also see a drop in visitation, although this was far less dramatic than the drop at the TIC. A total of 2246 registered visitors came to the Interpretive Centre this year as compared to 2593 last year, a 13% drop. The Forts have hosted a number of bus tours this year, with nine visits in August alone.

Whitney Lakes Provincial

Park has had an increase in campers this year, with 2390 camper unit nights recorded compared to 1984 camper unit nights last year. A significant increase, from 49 to 661 camper unit nights, was recorded on Ross Lake's Loop F, which now has electric hookups for campers. The leading place of origin for campers was once again surrounding areas, with Edmonton running a close second. Visitors from Saskatchewan more than doubled, while visitors from southern Alberta increased more than 300% at Ross Lake.

Province wide, there is an indication that tourist numbers for outdoor attractions are down, while indoor attractions such as museums have had more visitors than previous years, probably due to less than favorable weather conditions over much of the summer.

A second language — a great value

By Deanna Easthope

FCSS Director

With our children back in school, many of us have thoughts of education on our minds. This summer the Elk Point Community Choir had an opportunity to sing and tour parts of Germany, Austria, Switzerland and France. It was a wonderful, beautiful, educational experience for all who were able to go. There are so many things I could talk about. But, the one thing I would like to talk about this week is the value of a second language.

Our first week consisted of travelling in southern Germany. I fell in love with this part of Germany. The people were wonderful, and after they got to know us, we became their very good friends. There wasn't anything they wouldn't do for us in helping to make our trip memorable. One thing that impressed me right away was the fact that most of them could speak English. If they spoke a little English, they quickly tried either with the use of a dictionary or there seemed to be someone close by that was more familiar with the English language. English is their second language taught in their schools. I was very impressed with the fact that they were using the second language that they learned in school. The thought came to me of my inadequacy in speaking a second language with anyone. Yes, I took all the required French classes in school many, many years ago. But I have never spoken it to anyone outside of class. So, here am I in Europe, where the people speak two languages — or more. In France, however, some people in our group tried out their French language. I was impressed.

Speaking a second language opens more doors — thoughts can be expressed. The whole idea of communication is so basic to survival with other people. We are living in a world today where people are travelling more. When we visit the main tourist spots in our country — we soon discover that several people are speaking different languages. For example, our Rocky Mountain National Parks see many people from other countries. Even the Ukrainian Cultural Village has people from other countries who are visiting and speaking in their own language. When we can't speak to them in their language — it just seems so impersonal — and a stranger then remains a

Nutrition notes

Like my new shoes, they're cholesterol free

By Julia Painchaud

Dietician, Elk Point Health Centre

Many labels and food packages have the phrase "cholesterol free" to catch the attention of consumers. What is this all about? First of all, cholesterol is only manufactured by living things that have a liver. Plants do not have livers, therefore do not make cholesterol. Food sources of cholesterol are the animal products that we eat. It can be confusing when vegetable oils (made from plants) have "cholesterol free" written on the label. This statement is true, but there was no cholesterol in the food to begin with.

Studies are now showing that cholesterol in the diet does not affect blood cholesterol level as much as the total amount of fat and saturated fat in our diets. So even if a margarine or oil has "cholesterol free" written on the label it is still 100% fat and it may contain a large percentage of saturated-type fat (for example: coconut and palm oils, hard block-type margarines and some soft tub margarines). Many other products have "cholesterol free" on the label, too. For example, potato chips that are fried in 100% vegetable oil do not contain any cholesterol but are still very high in fat.

Major sources of cholesterol in the diet are egg yolks, organ meats, animal flesh and milk products. It is recommended to limit eggs to 3 per week. There is no cholesterol in egg whites so substituting two egg whites for one whole egg works great. Eating smaller portions of lean meats, eating organ meats in moderation and drinking and eating lower fat milk products are also ways to decrease your cholesterol and fat intake.

MAIN POINT: Do not be caught off guard by labels that say "cholesterol free." You need to find out how much fat is in this product and how much saturated fat. For more information, contact your local dietician/nutritionist.

opportunities in getting to know someone of another language becomes very limited. A door could be closed.

"What's going on at F. G. Miller High School?"

By Denise Smereka

F. G. Miller High School Librarian

On September 3, 1996, the doors of the high school opened for the 1996-97 school term. At an opening rally in the gymnasium, grade 7 through 12 students were introduced to all facets of school life, from sports to fashions, classes to extra-curricular activities.

The highlight of the rally was the introduction of "Crusade Above the Limit," an all-new incentive program. The program, devised and instituted by librarian Denise Smereka, and supported by the staff of F. G. Miller, encourages students to improve their current level of academic performance and expands school spirit to include academic achievements.

Approximately $2500 worth of prizes were donated or sponsored by local businesses, individuals and the Students' Union. All Crusaders are eligible for the draw when they have Crusaded Above the Limit of 80% or more on any quiz, exam, essay or individual project. Each mark they receive has the ability to become an entry in the program. There is NO LIMIT to the amount of 80%+ entries a student obtains, and their chance to win grows with every 80%+ mark they enter. All Crusader classes, both academic and non-academic, are involved in the program. Only one draw will be made per month, thus giving the entire student body equal opportunity for the terrific slate of prizes to be won. Each student has the chance to win more than once. This includes the monthly draws and those made at the end of June.

The Crusade Above the Limit would not have come to fruition were it not for the financial assistance that was shown for the program by local businesses, individuals and the Students' Union. A very special Crusader thanks to the following for making this worthwhile program a tremendous success:

The F. G. Miller Students' Union, 2M Resources (run by Ron Onusko), B&R Eckels, Leeway Heavy Oil, TCC Bottling, Higgins Photography, Royal Purple, The Cutting Edge, Elk Point Lioness Club, ODS Picture Framing, Shamrock Valley Enterprises, Deborah Grey, MP, Dr. J. Adams, Randall Krys, Lawrence Pidluzny, Maureen Ference, Ray Hellquist, Jim Hawkins, Bryce Lorenson, Denise Smereka, Deb Poulin, Lily Pentek, Cheri Lindquist, St. Paul and District Co-op, County of St.

Paul #19 FCSS, Town of Elk Point (prize still pending), AADAC, Kelly's Closet, Woody's Trophy, Windsor Salt (draw barrel), and Chris and Gail Havener (UFA).

If there are any other interested parties that may have been missed out in the initial blitz and who would like to become part of the Crusade Above the Limit program, please contact Denise Smereka at 724-3966.

Crusade above the limit... 80%+

The Crusade has begun. As the doors opened, over 200 Crusaders flooded into the Castle of F. G. Miller to learn the secret of how to Crusade Above the Limit. In the alcove of the castle wall, behind a shimmering plate of magic, was suspended the Crusader Horde of tantalizing treasures. Each Lord and Lady, visions of glory reflecting in their eyes, knew that with the secret, glory would be theirs at the end of this long, but exciting journey toward the Horde's magical release in June.

stranger to us. To be able to speak a second language is a great value. Communication with others is basic. As they say, "To know you is to love you." But, if we are inadequate in a second language, our

Police and Crime Prevention Working Together

The formation of Youth Justice Committees is authorized under Section 69 of the Young Offenders Act. The principles upon which such committees operate are:

- young persons should be held responsible for their criminal wrongdoing;
- there must be regard for the rights and freedoms of young persons and victims;
- parents have a responsibility for the care and supervision of their child;
- the least intrusive alternatives and restrictions of young persons' freedom must be sought while still maintaining the protection of the community;
- the community has a right and responsibility to participate in the youth justice system and a youth justice committee is an opportunity for citizens to be directly involved in reconciling the differences between the young offender, victims and community members.

The Frog Lake / Fishing Lake Youth Justice Committee is a unique example of a committee in that it is a partnership between Frog Lake First Nations and Fishing Lake Metis Settlement. This committee has worked diligently over the past two years together with the police and the judicial system and has set a positive example to the community, demonstrating dedication and a spirit of cooperation. All committee members are volunteers and receive no pay or expenses.

Referrals to the committee come from the courts after the offender has admitted guilt or been found guilty. Increasingly, judges are requesting input in order to best serve the offender and the community. Who is best equipped to understand the community, the offender and the victims other than representatives from that community? Youth justice committees are given the mandate to hear from the offender, the victim, and family and community members and make recommendations to the court for the most appropriate solution to the problem. In many cases the recommendations are more severe than those traditionally imposed by the courts, with the added impact of community input.

Youth justice committees play a very important role in Alberta's justice system. They can take a negative situation and turn it into a positive one for young offenders, their parents and their communities. Should you like more information about youth justice committees, feel free to contact the detachment.

What's news at the library?

Storytime underway for another season — with new stories!

By Michele Duczek
Librarian

Now that school is well underway, it is time to start up storytime for another year. Storytime runs Friday mornings starting at 10:30 p.m. and includes stories, games and crafts. Stop by and check it out. (You might want to bring a child with you.)

Just when I think I've run out of new books to talk about, I get a whole big batch that gives me weeks worth of columns. Here are a few of the latest:

The talking pig movie that took everyone by surprise, Babe, has arrived at the library. Join Babe and his farmyard friends as he tries to find a purpose for his life other than being dinner.

The Aristocats, one of Disney's classic films, is another addition to the collection. Join Duchess and O'Malley the alley cat as they and their friends foil a catnapping.

Nancy meets a master telepath while searching for a missing friend in Under His Spell from the Nancy Drew Files.

While Frank and Joe help a friend move into his college dorm, his roommate is grabbed by a couple of pistol-wielding thugs in Clean Sweep from the Hardy Boys Casefiles.

Spock and his father must find out who is trying to sabotage a peace treaty in Crisis on Vulcan, the first book in the Star Trek: Starfleet Academy series.

Gretchen and her stepbrother Clark are staying at their grandparents' house and they discover something creepy is in the house in How to Kill a Monster from Goosebumps.

A doorway opens between present day Spooksville and sixty million years ago in The Deadly Past from the Spooksville series.

Everyone but Molly is excited about getting their swimming badges, but Molly can't swim in Pee Wee Pool Party from the Pee Wee Scouts.

The Alberta Foundation for the Arts recently donated two recent award-winning Alberta books:

We Don't Have to be Friends by Grant Nolin is the latest Alberta Writing for Youth

Competition winner. Sixteen-year-old Bonnie Chorski finds herself a movie star's manager (temporarily, of course) when a film crew sets up in Canmore.

Copperknob by George Wing is the recent winner of the Alberta New Fiction Competition. Shortly after WWII, the expatriate of Ramakhan is shook up by the arrival of readheaded Helen whose try at respectability fails when she meets the unscrupulous Khali.
